Kidd feels books safer in Jackson

Former Bay St. Louis City Clerk Lucien Kidd said he is opposed to returning 13 old council minute books to City Hall from the State Archives and History Department in Jackson.

Kidd, along with former Bay Mayor Warren Carver, signed a "Contract of Gift" in 1977 which relinquished the 13 books to the Archives Department.

The contract was recently discovered after Sea Coast Echo Heritage Editor Joe Pilet could not find the books and conducted a search of old documents which produced the contract.

The books are presently in the Archives Department vaults, and a microfilm of the volumes are in the county library.

Kidd said he would not be in favor of returning the books to City Hall "unless those volumes were locked up in a fire proof vault."

"The books could burn up, and there is a lot of valuable history in there. They were kicked around and (officials) were fixing to take and store them in an old fire station on Carroll Avenue," Kidd said.

"If you want to see them, you can go to Jackson or see the microfilm in the library," he added.

Ms. Pilet alleges that there are many other volumes "just as important" as the minute books, such as ordinance books, stored in the City Hall.

A search of the minute books for 1977 reportedly failed to reveal authorization for the officials to give the books away.

Kidd claims the council authorized the mayor and city clerk to hand the books over to the Archives Department.

"It's in the minutes...but much further back (than 1977). The matter was discussed a long time before we took action on it," Kidd said.

"If they want to they can have the minutes rescinded," Kidd added.

Chamber poll participation 'disappointing'

By RICH ADAMS

Representative members of the Hancock County and Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Boards met with the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's executive committee Wednesday to discuss "the economic situation and problems facing the two schools."

At the meeting, which was closed to the public, the Chamber's executive committee and its education committee chairman, Gail Pressman, released results of a recent Chamber poll of public views on administrative unification of the two schools.

"No decisions were made at this meeting, but problems and alternatives were discussed," Chamber President Dick Thomas said.

School Board President Virginia Gex, Superintendent J. D. McCullough, Board Member Walter Turcotte, and newly appointed Board Member James Ginn represented the Bay School system at the meeting.

Hancock Board President Woodrow Ladner said last week no members from his board would attend, but Superintendent Terry Randolph and Board Member Louie Ladner did attend the meeting.

The County board president said last week that his board will meet with the Bay board only after the election of a new Bay school board member on March 3.

Ms. Pressman called response to the public opinion poll "disappointing," noting the Chamber received only 115 replies.

"Of those 115, 61 percent were for and 39 percent were against (unification of the two school districts)," Ms. Pressman reported.

Eclipse watching can be dangerous

One of nature's most dramatic events, a solar eclipse, will occur Monday - a total eclipse in a path from the Pacific Ocean crossing the northwestern United States, and partial in virtually all the rest of the continental U.S.

This occurrence is the last visible eclipse this century in Continental United States.

The Mississippi Society to Prevent Blindness, MSPB, warns that watching the eclipse can be dangerous, and advises precautionary measures.

Following the last total eclipse seen in the U.S. (March 7, 1970), 145 cases of eye injury were reported in a National Society to Prevent Blindness survey, 121 of them eclipse burns.

Sixty percent of the casualties had looked at the sun directly with the naked eye. The remainder had tried to protect their eyes with various devices - sunglasses, totally exposed photographic negatives, smoked glass and welder's goggles.

MSPB Executive Director Mrs. Edith Mullin emphasizes that there is no recommended safe way to look at an eclipse directly - partial or total.

Infra-red rays emitted by the sun can burn the retina, causing scarring and resulting in blind spots in the victim's vision.

The retina is the light-sensitive layer of nerve cells at the back of the eye that transmits visual images to the brain. "Usually the sun's dazzling light naturally prevents people from looking directly at it," Mrs. Mullin said, "but in total eclipse, the moon slowly darkens that light, for brief minutes completely obscuring it."

"While the light dims, the sun is still emitting its invisible but burning infrared rays, and since the retina is not pain-sensitive, a burn will not be noticed until the damage is done," she continued.

The Society recommends indirect watching as the only safe way. The simplest indirect way is the "pinhole" method.

Take two pieces of white cardboard, make a small hole in one, and with the sun at your back, focus the eclipse through the pinhole onto the second board.

The size of the image can be changed by alternating the distance between the cardboard.

Older children and adults might use binoculars or a telescope as the projector, replacing the pinhole cardboard.

With the sunlight at your back, position the instrument over your shoulder with the eyepiece down so that the light passing through it focuses on

Pearlington man charged in shooting

A Pearlington bartender has been charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon following a shooting at a Pearlington bar Friday night, according to Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Ladner.

Elliott Barnett, 33, 1019 Trehe, New Orleans, who operates Moultries Bar in Pearlington, was released Saturday on a $5,000 bond from the Hancock County Jail after he allegedly shot Frank Acker, 26, Pearlington in the shoulder with a .22 caliber pistol, Ladner said Saturday.

According to the sheriff, Barnett and Acker became involved in a fight at the tavern in Pearlington and Barnett produced a gun and shot Acker in the shoulder.

Acker was taken to Crosby Hospital in Piquette and later transferred to the Oschner Foundation, where he is reportedly listed in good condition.

Sheriff's Deputies Willie Lee, Chris Sands, and David Garcia are investigating the incident.

Waveland woman injured in Pass auto accident

By RICH ADAMS

A Waveland woman was listed in "fairly good condition" by Gulfport Memorial Hospital Friday afternoon where she is under treatment for injuries suffered in an automobile accident in Pass Christian Thursday.

Elaine Colson, 119 Lakeside Drive, Waveland, was admitted to the hospital with a fractured neck Thursday after her car collided with an automobile driven by Charles L. Cuevas Jr., Rt. 2 Box 236, Pass Christian, according to the Harrison County Sheriff's Department.

The accident occurred on Menge Avenue in Pass Christian near 1-10 at approximately 2 p.m., a spokesman for the Sheriff's Department said.

Sheriff's Deputy Gerry Tootle, investigating officer in the incident, said the front ends of both vehicles were extensively damaged, adding the cars were "probably totaled."

Tootle said Cuevas refused medical treatment at the time of the mishap. Ms. Colson was transported to Gulfport Memorial Hospital by Mobile Medical, he deputy said.

Tootle said no tickets have been issued and added an investigation is continuing.

Million-dollar Middletown Phase I contractor hired

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Work should begin tentatively March 23 by Beta Enterprises on the first phase of Waveland's Middletown improvements.

Beta, a Gulfport firm, was awarded a $341,420 contract for improvements on 11 streets in the Middletown section of Waveland by the City's Board of Aldermen Wednesday night.

Ward Two Waveland Alderman Jack Toomey said Beta Enterprises, the only firm to bid on the first phase of the project, should tentatively begin work 30 days following Board approval of the contract.

The streets in the first phase to receive sewer, water, drainage and paving are the section of Morris Street between Olivari Street and a dead end; a street between Morris Street and Railroad Avenue; all of the opened and existing Morris Street West; Amar Street between Tabor Street and Olivari Street; Dicks Street from Singleton Street to Dixie Street; and Dixie Street between Herlihy Street and Dicks Street.

The streets under the plan to receive water, drainage and paving include Olivari Street between Herlihy Street and Railroad Avenue; Hart Street between Morris and Herlihy Streets; Singleton Street from Herlihy Street to the dead end.

In an effort to determine whether or not Waveland has officially dedicated Magnolia Street, the Board has authorized a search of city minutes from December 1946 to 1961.

A plat filed with the city shows the street dedicated, but Raymond Ladner who owns property alongside Magnolia Street claims the street was abandoned by Waveland.

Ladner has posted a "Private Drive" sign at the entrance of the street.

The Board also adopted an amen-

Senate oks half-cent tax; measure goes to governor

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett said Saturday he is "hopeful" that Governor Cliff Finch will sign a special bill, this week, passed by the State Senate Friday, authorizing the city to levy a one-half cent sales tax on retail goods to pay off a $475,000 damage judgement.

The measure was passed by the House of Representatives last week, and now goes to the governor for approval. Bennett said he talked to one of the governor's aides Friday, who said he sees no problem in getting the measure signed.

"I am elated over this. It is the best thing that has happened to us," Bennett said Saturday.

"I want to again emphasize the importance of Senator Martin Smith and Representative J.P. Compretta who worked so diligently to get approval by the House and Senate," he continued.

"Hopefully Governor Finch will sign the bill this week," he added.

The bill will authorize the city to issue bonds to cover the city's obligation in a damage judgement, and to retire the debt through the sales tax.

The bill will be subject to a referendum if 20 percent of Bay St. Louis voters signed a petition.

The judgement resulted from a 1969 incident in which 16-year-old James Warner III of New Orleans dove from a city-owned pier into shallow water.

He suffered a broken neck, inducing paralysis, and subsequently died. A $750,000 lawsuit was filed against Bay St. Louis, but a Federal District Judge reduced the claim to $375,000.

Bennett said the city is still fighting the judgement, adding the matter is now in the hand of the city attorneys.

"We are still fighting this judgement, and I will continue to do so. I really hope we will not have to pay the judgement," Bennett said.

Bennett and the city council estimate the bill to remain in effect, if approved, for five years.

He said the one-half cent tax will "cease immediately" as soon as the debt is paid off.

The mayor said tourists and other people coming through the city will have to pay the extra tax.

"We feel this is the most equitable way to handle this matter," The mayor said.

County Agent's Notes

FARM PLANNING

With today's competitive farm situation, it takes all the know-how and skill available to get ahead. You need to plan now to remove as many risks as possible to increase your chances of producing a better crop in 1979.

Start by soil testing; applying lime where needed; ordering fertilizer, seed and pesticides; checking on drainage problems; and getting equipment ready. Then, when planting time comes, you will have the supplies you need and be ready to go.

PESTICIDE, FERTILIZER
Supplies of pesticides and fertilizers should be adequate for 1979 crops, with no major price changes from last year. Fertilizer prices are slightly lower than in 1978.

You need to book these supplies now if needs are known. Early booking will help you get the materials recommended, especially if some are scarce near planting time.

WASTE AS FERTILIZER
Animal waste, such as poultry litter and livestock manure, can substitute for or supplement commercial fertilizers. These wastes can be used on pasture and row crops, but they vary in nutrient content. You need to know the nutrient content of each batch of waste.

On grass and grain crops, four to six tons of waste per acre are recommended. In addition, use a starter fertilizer, such as 13-13-13, at the rate of 100 to 200 pounds per acre. On both row crops and pastures, incorporate the waste to cut nutrient loss.

CONTROL WILD GARLIC
If you occasionally grow wheat in rotation with soybeans, it may be a good idea to begin a wild garlic control program on idle soybean land this winter.

Wild garlic is not a problem in soybeans, but this weed will infest wheat to the extent that the grain may have to be sold as animal feed.

For garlic control on soybean lands, disk fields once or twice in the winter. This will uproot the garlic and prevent reseeding. For additional control, apply one to two pounds per acre of low volatile ester 2,4-D before disking.

STOP WEEDS
Wild mustard, turnip and several other related weeds species are becoming more of a problem in Mississippi winter grazing crops. These weeds can be controlled, but you need to start treatment as soon as possible to kill the weeds before they flower.

On early planted small grain crops, control should be started by early January. Apply from three-fourths to one pound per acre of low volatile ester 2,4-D. Add one quart of surfactant per 100 gallons of spray to improve wetting. Apply the herbicide mixture on the earliest warm, sunny day.

Use Versatile Soybeans For Protein-Rich Meals

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Turn that bumper soybean crop into a hardy winter meal! Sound odd? It shouldn't, says Barbara P. McLaurin, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service food and nutrition specialist.

The versatile soybean is used in more foods than you can get into one grocery cart — soy oil and margarine, protein-rich soy flour and granules, protein isolates and lecithin, a magical compound that makes sauces and batters creamier and smoother.

You don't have to go to the grocery store to cook a meal with soybeans, though, especially if you live on a soybean farm. Almost any field variety can be used.

There are also several garden or edible varieties. These have been developed just for cooking and have a slightly milder flavor and cook quicker than the field varieties. Remember, soybeans can be used just like any other dried beans, and peas in chili, soups, casseroles and cold bean salads, says Mrs. McLaurin.

Soybeans have the highest protein content in the legume family and are an excellent source of calcium, phosphorus and iron. Dried soybeans contain vitamins B and E.

Sort dry soybeans before cooking to remove discolored, cracked or shiveled beans. After sorting, measure beans and wash thoroughly. To soak and cook, follow the directions below. One cup of dry soybeans will yield about 2 1/2 cups of cooked beans.

Cheese Important Source

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Cheese is such a concentrated form of milk nutrients that it takes 10 pounds of milk to make a pound of cheese, says Ann Rushing, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service marketing specialist.

Because cheese is a rich source of protein and calcium, it is an ideal choice for children's school lunches and after-school snacks. For a child who doesn't care for milk, cheese is an alternate milk product to supply needed calcium.

While cheese is best kept refrigerated, it is served best at room temperature. Cheese doesn't spoil easily, but will probably become soft if kept too long in a warm place, says Mrs. Rushing.

For quick after-school snacks or even for a party, serve cheese on crackers or make an economical quick spread.

To soak, use four cups of water for each cup of dry beans. To soak them quickly, boil beans two minutes, remove from heat, and let stand an hour. Or if you prefer, boil beans two minutes and let them stand overnight in the refrigerator.

To boil, soak beans as directed. Add one teaspoon of salt for each cup of dry beans. Simmer, covered, in soaking water two to three hours until beans are tender. Add water, if necessary, during cooking. When done, the beans will be firm, but tender, and not mealy. To reduce foaming, add one to two teaspoons of oil or meat drippings to the cooking water.

To cook in pressure cooker, soak beans as directed. Place beans and soaking water in pressure cooker. Add one teaspoon of salt for each cup of dry beans. Fill the pressure cooker no more than one-third full of beans and water. If cooker is too full, food may clog the vent tube and cause an explosion. Follow manufacturer's instructions for use of your pressure cooker, adds Mrs. McLaurin.

Editorial

TRASH EVERYWHERE - One begins to wonder when trash will be disposed of in the proper way and at the locations. We make a very poor impression on outsiders when they drive down our beach and see this garbage dump on the North end. Every so often the Supervisor of the district has his men clean up the mess and a few days later the dump gets started again. We can be good citizens by reporting anyone unlawfully dumping garbage and trash in either Bay St. Louis, Waveland or the County. It is up to us to help keep our communities clean. Dumpsters have been provided and a designated dumping area is provided, yet some folks are just too darn lazy to use them.

Street signs made headlines in 1931

Dear Editor:

Same Song, twenty-fifth verse: "No dumping, $50 fine. Keep Bay St. Louis beautiful." The 24th verse appeared on January 21 in the Echo, recommending that "a few culprits be caught and given a stiff fine." Were they? As far as litter is concerned, I really don't see any difference.

Also - wouldn't it be great to have a marker on the Beach Drive showing where Bay St. Louis ends and Waveland begins? On Friday, July 17, 1931 the following advertisement appeared in the Sea Coast Echo:

$50.00 REWARD
A reward of $50.00 will be given by the Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the town of Waveland for the arrest and conviction, or information leading to the arrest and conviction, of party or parties who have destroyed the highway signs of the town of Waveland.

(signed) E. G. Schwartz, Mayor

Authorities in both Waveland and Bay St. Louis have been informed that signs are needed, and they have promised erection of signs prior to the date of the Spring Pilgrimage on March 22.

MISSISSIPPI
CONSUMER
REPORTA Service of the Consumer Protection Division Of The Office Of
A. F. Summer, Attorney GeneralNO PLACE
LIKE HOME

Q: We are considering trying to purchase or build a home of our own. Can you tell us something about what is involved in this? This will be our first time to do something like this.

A: Real estate brokers are specialists who offer specific services concerning the purchase and sale of a home. However, an increasing number of sellers are marketing homes directly without a broker.

Brokers can act as an information clearinghouse for a local area. A good broker can provide general information about a community and specific information about schools, shopping, and taxes.

All brokerage commissions are flexible and in nearly all cases brokerage fees are paid by the seller.

Not only are fees flexible, but the type of listing agreement, its length, and other factors are also flexible. One word of caution - whether you are a buyer or seller remember that clear, written agreements are your best protection in the marketplace.

Be certain you carefully review and thoroughly understand both listing agreements and sales contracts before you sign. It may also be advisable to consult an attorney.

If you plan to buy an older house, include a clause that gives you the right to hire a professional inspector to do a comprehensive check of the structure and condition of the house.

The following checks are very important and the cost of necessary repair work should be reflected in the selling price of the house: Termite infestation and woodrot; sagging structure; poor electrical wiring; rundown heating system; plumbing, capacity of hot water heater; leaky roofs; wet basements; inoperative windows and doors.

If you plan to build your new home, follow these few precautions:

Find out if your builder is reputable. Check with previous clients, the Consumer Protection Division of your office, and the Better Business Bureau. If you are considering a development where several homes are already occupied, speak to present owners. If there are no residents yet, look at other projects by the builder and speak to owners there.

Do not accept oral promises - have the builder (or real estate agent) put all promises in writing and keep a copy for your files. Be certain the contract gives you the specific right to choose the settlement attorney or title company.

Find out the costs for water and trash collection. Also ask your builder whether he will assume the costs for sewer lines, new sidewalks, and paving the new section of the street up to your new home.

Pass by the construction site weekly to check up on the progress of the building.

Find out what type of warranty is being offered. If your builder does not offer a warranty, can disputes be settled without going to court?

Settlement is the formal process by which ownership of the property passes from the seller to the buyer. You ought to know about the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (RESPA), because this will protect you at this last important step in buying a home. Settlement costs include the real estate broker's commission, insurance, title insurance and various fees. These costs add up to quite a bit of money, so make sure you know what you are doing each step of the way.

Health Tips

CHILDHOOD
DENTAL CARE

(Presented as a Public Service by the Mississippi State Medical Association and this newspaper.)

It is good to encourage your children to emulate George Washington, but not where dental health is concerned.

Our first president had a long history of troubles with his dentures.

Your children's teeth should last their entire lifetime. Of course, this is true provided youngsters have been started on the way to good dental health at a young age.

Dental health habits must be learned in childhood, the Mississippi State Medical Association points out.

In fact, youngsters should have their first dental examination at the age of two and one-half years when all their primary teeth have erupted.

Those first teeth are important to future dental health. One basic function of primary teeth is to preserve proper space for permanent teeth, and if they are lost too soon through decay, for example the development of permanent teeth is often crooked.

Poorly aligned teeth can affect appearance, eating habits and speech. Frequently, mishapen dentition can only be corrected by orthodontic treatment, which may be lengthy and costly.

And, if a child's appearance is seriously affected by unsightly teeth, emotional problems may result.

On the initial dental visit, the dentist will check for any signs of beginning decay and other dental problems.

He will also give your child and you instructions for proper home care.

Usually the first appointment is a "get acquainted" period and is designed to make the child receptive to treatments at regular intervals.

To start your child on a lifetime of good dental health at home, make certain he or she always brushes properly after meals and after snacks.

If the child is in the habit of eating a lot of sweets, cut down on them; sweets are a major cause of decay. And, the child should be drinking fluoridated water to help prevent decay.

SHOULD THE DRAFT
BE REINSTITUTED?

Nobody likes to think of the possibility that the United States would become involved in another war. And, the thought of a loved one being shipped to foreign soil is never a pleasant one.

For those reasons, and others, I had hoped that the all-volunteer system of fielding an army would work. But recent statistics from the Pentagon have shown that the system has failed to be responsive to the manpower needs of the military.

The Pentagon said all four military branches - the Air Force, Army, Marine Corps and Navy - were unable to meet recruiting goals in the closing months of 1978, the first time that has happened since the draft ended in 1973. Overall, in October through December, 1978, the armed services signed up 64,000 men and women, 90 percent of their total recruiting objectives.

The Air Force got 95 percent of the enlistees it sought, the Army got 83 percent, the Marine Corps got 86 percent and the Navy 85 percent. Even though the winter months are usually the slackest for recruiting, it's obvious that action must be taken to eliminate the manpower shortage in our armed services.

At the very least, we would beef up the Selective Service System and require registration of 18-year-olds so we'll know how many recruits would be immediately available in the event of an armed conflict involving the United States.

Only after a great deal of thought and discussion have I reluctantly come to the conclusion that the draft will probably have to be reinstated in some form. So, I'm cosponsoring a bill to that effect.

The legislation calls for registration of both men and women during the 18th year of their birth. It would provide for actual induction of up to 200,000 men on the basis of a lottery. They would serve on active duty for no less than three months of training followed by assignment to the Individual Ready Reserve for the remainder of a six-year obligation.

One peripheral issue that has surfaced is whether women should be drafted. My response is no, but women certainly should be allowed to volunteer for any branch of the military and serve, for the most part, in any capacity.

The growing military threat from the Soviet Union and the need to rapidly mobilize trained reserve forces in an emergency persuaded 54 percent of the respondents to a January, 1979, National Opinion Poll to tell Congress to restore draft legislation. Forty-one percent did not favor resumption of the draft and five percent were undecided.

Senior military officials and a number of Members of Congress have recommended mandatory registration. President Carter has asked for $9.8 million to reduce the time needed to restore the draft by shoring up administrative staff and computer capacity.

We are not now at war, and, hopefully, we won't need large numbers of draftees. But the fact remains that the best deterrent to war is an adequate military force.

the white cardboard.

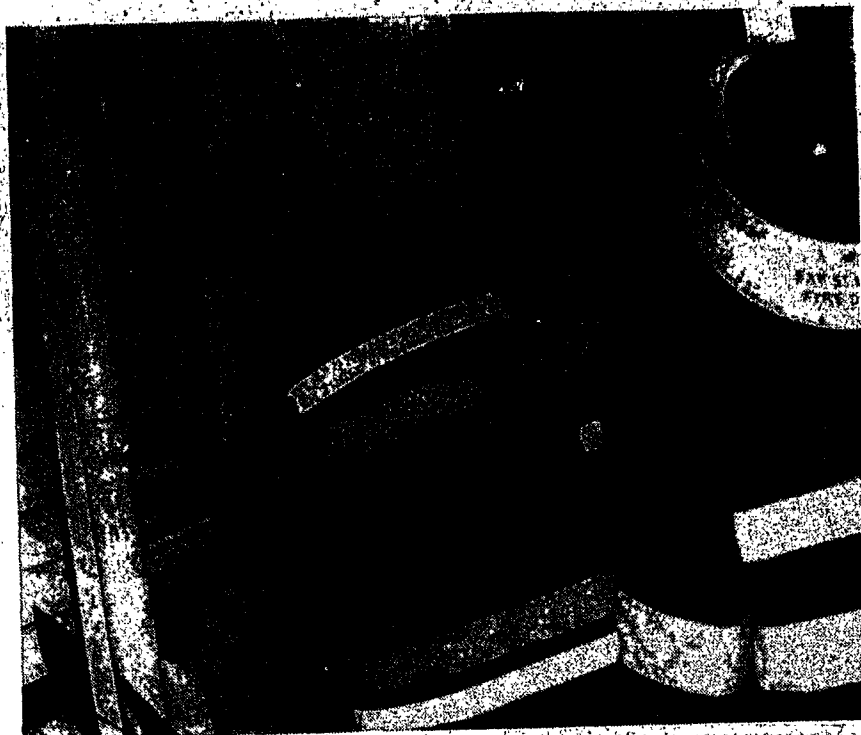

Using either method, the circle of light on the cardboard will show the sun being slowly obscured by the moon as it passes between the earth and sun.

NEVER LOOK AT THE ECLIPSE THROUGH THE PINHOLE OR THROUGH THE BINOCULARS OR TELESCOPE!

Photographers should also remember not to look at the sun through their camera viewfinder.

The path of the total eclipse - which will be the last visible in the Continental 48 states during this century - comes ashore over Oregon and Washington, moves through Idaho, Montana and a small part of North Dakota and then up into Canada and over Greenland, where sunset will terminate it.

Although the eclipse will be only a partial one in Mississippi - the Mississippi Society to Prevent Blindness urges anyone viewing it to be extremely careful.

REPORT TO MISSISSIPPIANS

Inflation will once again be the major problem facing the 96th Congress. It is apparent that unless inflation can be controlled, our very lifestyle will be threatened.

When President Carter took office two years ago, he invited me along with other Congressional leaders to the White House for a general discussion on national issues. He asked the question of each of us, "What do you see as the major problem facing the United States?" My answer was, "Inflation - the high cost of living is our greatest problem." In the past two years inflation has become so severe that there is widespread agreement that something must be done. Inflation is now uppermost in the minds of our citizens and is seen as the greatest challenge facing government officials on every level.

At the opening of the 96th Congress last week I introduced a resolution that would bring about a balanced federal budget in a gradual manner by calling for a "pay-as-you-go" constitutional amendment. This amendment would require that if at the end of the year a deficit existed, an additional tax would be automatically imposed to cover it. The budget would be balanced every year, unless a grave national emergency existed, such as war or economic depression.

This amendment would place the burden of keeping the budget in balance squarely on the shoulders of Congress. It makes it clear that any member of Congress who votes for appropriations that result in a deficit is automatically and simultaneously voting for a tax increase. Under this proposal one follows the other as night follows day, and the taxpayers who would bear the burden of any tax increase would know who imposed it on them.

I believe this amendment is an idea whose time has come. Recent elections have reflected strong public support for such a concept, and at least 22 state legislatures have called for a constitutional amendment with the same basic purpose.

Until this amendment, or one similar to it, is adopted, we must work for reduced deficits. Congress has not been idle. We have established a special budget committee and imposed a ceiling on ourselves for the last three years, reducing the deficit from $66 billion to $50 billion and then to $40 billion. The President has helped in this.

However, too much fat remains in the budget, and we are all paying dearly for those huge budget deficits. The President has pledged to hold the deficit to $30 billion for fiscal 1980 which begins October 1. That figure is less than one-half of the 1976 deficit.

Much of the debate in Congress this year will be over the question of how much budget cuts can be made without starting a recession in business at the same time. Of course, I hope we can reduce federal spending while avoiding a recession, but we will have to proceed carefully rather than take extreme and drastic steps which could have devastating effects and greatly upset our already troubled economy.

Let me emphasize that cutting federal spending and balancing the budget is not the sole solution to our inflation problem. There is no single cause and no single solution. But reduced spending is a step in the right direction, and I am committed to doing all I can to help restore stability to our economy.

LUMBER ROUNDUP: Charles Cox, 23, 498 Feliccity St., and Gary R. Baker, 28, Rt. 1 Box 146 Bay St. Louis were arrested by Bay police and charged with grand larceny in connection with an alleged theft of lumber from a construction site in Cedar Point. The two were stopped by Bay patrolman Louis Hearty at 1:37 a.m. Thursday in a pickup with lumber. Further investigation revealed the materials were missing from a Gary Heltzmann construction job, police said. Bay patrolman Harris Boudreaux, left, Chief Douglas Williams and Bay investigator Dave Seltzer recovered the lumber after acquiring a search warrant on a residence at 109 Burnett Street. Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan J. Ladner and Chief Deputy Ronnie Peterson were called in when a welding machine was found in the house allegedly belonging to an industry at the Port Blenville. Bay Patrolman Albert Biehl assisted Hearty in the initial investigation. (Staff photo-Ellis Cuevas)

County jobless rate declines

The state's jobless rate rose to 7.3 percent for January, an increase of four-tenths percent over December, according to Mississippi Employment Security Commission Executive Director Edgar C. Lloyd Jr.

The 7.3 unemployed rate for Mississippi was higher than the 6.4 percent national rate. Lloyd said the effects of seasonal layoffs contributed to the January unemployment rate. MESC figures showed 70,100 unemployed and 693,500 employed from a civilian labor force of 763,600.

The counties with the highest rate of unemployment were Sharkey with 18.6; Quitman with 18.3; and Montgomery with 16.4 percent.

The three counties with the lowest unemployment rate for January were Rankin with 3.4; Lafayette with 4.1 and Lamar with 4.4 percent. Seventeen counties showed a decrease in the January unemployment rate, including Amite, Calhoun, Clarke, Clay, Franklin, Hancock, Hinds, Jones, Lamar, Madison, Prentiss, Scott, Stone, Tippah, Winston and Yazoo.

Carroll, George, Jasper and Neshoba Counties had the same rate of unemployment for December and January.

Waveland's Sea Chanty among Spring Pilgrimage features

Perhaps the largest, and one of the oldest, remaining homes in Waveland is "Sea Chanty," residence of the family of Cdr. Julian M. Wright, Jr. at 428 South Beach Boulevard.

The first known account and illustrations of "Sea Chanty" occurred in Charles L. Dyer's "Along the Gulf," first published by William E. Myers in 1894. Then known as the "Fell Mansion," this heroic home is a dramatic example of Italianate style of architecture, a period which flourished briefly in Mississippi immediately following the Civil War.

Built of great strength, "Sea Chanty" has fundamentally survived the onslaught of the major Mississippi coastal hurricanes of this century, most notable the Hurricane of 1947 and Hurricane Camille of August, 1969.

Currently being restored and renovated by the Wright family, this home is furnished with a warmly personalized blend of forms and textures which represent widely disparate cultures covering three centuries.

Furnishings include primitive tribal weavings and a drum acquired in Chiang Mai, Thailand, a city established in 1296, blue and white antique porcelains from China and Japan, an elaborately carved wood antique blackwood chest from Peking, and 18th century burled walnut English chairs.

Also included are antique Japanese wood block prints, numerous antique Korean chests in pear, lime, and persimmon woods with hand-hammered brass fittings and locks, mid-19th century bed, dresser, and armoires, a Chinese coromandel lacquered cabinet, rosewood furniture, and a large collection of hand crafted chairs and tables designed by the Wrights and made in the Philippines.

Sharing the music room is an intricately carved music stand and pump organ, numerous Chinese and Thai musical instruments, and a stately concert grand piano.

The diverse and dramatic contrast in furnishings reflect the many interests and extensive traveling experienced by the Wrights.

BAY ST. LOUIS

All Seniors are invited to attend the February birthday party to honor the seniors who have birthdays this month at our Center on Old Spanish Trail Monday, Feb. 26, at 1:30 p.m.

By special request, Piccolas School of Dance will entertain with a variety of dances that will hold everyone spellbound. There will be special birthday and door prizes and refreshments will be served.

MARDI GRAS

The Center will be closed all day Tuesday, Feb. 27.

There will be no coffee and biscuit brunch or blood pressure checks on the above date at the Waveland Civic Center.

The next coffee and biscuit brunch will be Tuesday, March 6, from 9 to 11 a.m.

It was a revelation to this writer who conducts several recreational events every month to see so many friends and neighbors participating in our week's game session.

Many of our Seniors, due to inclement weather, being hospitalized, or ill at home were tired of being shut-ins, so they took advantage of the beautiful sunny day to get out and we are sure happy that they shared it with us.

Winners included Ruth Favre, Rosalind Freyde, Sedonia Fayard, Ulman Mauffray, Franklin Cain, Joe Petta, Cecile Gallivan, Olga Adam, Marie Moran, Louise Banks, Marie Elchhorn, and Eunice Dunbar. Noah Garcia, won the door prize.

Participating Merchants were Hair Port Beauty Salon, Thorpe's Sea Food, TG&Y, Rosie's Restaurant, and the Captains Table, all from Waveland. From Bay St. Louis, Manieris' Restaurant, The Eatery, Pizza Hut. Also contributing Gayfer's Department Store, Edgewater Plaza, Biloxi.

Volunteers for this event were Eva Ruhr, Jewell Stratton, Cecile Gallivan, Katherine Gallivan, Maggie Dambrino, Bernice Scaffi, Jenny Taconi, Edith Chevis, Nina Garner, Lucy Bradt, Lucille Reese, Its Stromeyer, Georgianna Diebold, Margaret G. Smith, Julia Leddy, Thelma White, Audrey Curet, Les Gallivan, Roland Gallivan, and Frank Gerard. Congratulations and a big Thank You to each and everyone for helping to make it all a big success.

We also celebrated St. Valentine's Day at our game session. Eckerd Drugs of Bay St. Louis took the part of Dan Cupid, presenting three beautiful boxes of fine chocolate candy to the eldest Senior, Lady and Gentlemen present.

They were Harriet Jordan, 93; and the men ended with a tie between Sidney Gonzales and Alfred Roehm, both being 89 years of age. Our three celebrities are all residents of Bay St. Louis.

BREAKFAST

The Senior Centers' February breakfast of bacon, eggs, grits, and French toast, was a huge success. Approximately 125 Dignitaries and Seniors enjoyed this fine repast.

Volunteering for the breakfast: Joe Petta, Eugenia Benoit, Mary G. Smith, Tuleter Oliver, Anna Mae Ladner, and Lt. Richard Pate, Fireman, of Bay St. Louis.

A very special Thank-you to all. The money received from this breakfast will help to defray expenses incurred for the First Ball of the Krewe of Hancock County Seniors.

SENIORS CLUB

The National Council of Senior Citizens Incorporated, Hancock County Chapter held its regular monthly meeting in the dining room of the Center Tuesday.

MARDI GRAS

The 1st Ball of the Krewe of Hancock County Seniors, will be held at the American Legion Post No. 139, Blue Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis, Fri., Feb. 23 at 1 p.m.

There will be some very nice special prizes for the King and Queen, and many other surprises throughout the Ball. "The Seniors Too" Orchestra, under the direction of Dick Austin, who will entertain everyone with all of the Nostalgia tunes of the 30s and 40s.

This fine Musical Group, made up of all Seniors, will entertain at all Senior Events without any remuneration.

Since this is our first Ball, let's all start thinking and putting our ideas into action on those real fine, far-out original costumes. Let's all turn out 100 percent for the Ball, and then, excuse the pun, we will all have a great big Ball.

HERE &amp; THERE

For all you folks who would like to own an original oil painting by a great local artist and an instructor of the Senior Art Class, Mr. Carl Baldenhofer, but you think it would be too expensive for you to buy one, the Senior Art Class is offering a golden opportunity for someone to own an original. For further information, please call 467-9292 or 467-3763.

HORTICULTURE

Wilma Miller, instructor for the Horticulture Class, has informed me of several new innovations in flower arranging will be initiated in her class, plus with weather permitting, several side trips and out-door class work.

All Nature Lovers are now invited to join this class as there are a few openings left. So before you are left out and the class is closed, get busy and call 467-9292.

This Class will hold a cake sale on Saturday, Feb. 24, 10 a.m. in front of the TG&Y Variety Store, Bay St. Louis Shopping Center. Anyone interested in donating a cake, pie, etc, please call.

All you folks that are interested in just some real good eating, come on out and buy a box of goodies.

SENIORS CLUB

The Senior Citizens Association of Waveland, Inc. held its regular meeting Monday, February 12 at 10 a.m. at the Civic Center. Coffee and king cake donated by Theresa Hubert were served prior to the meeting.

Mrs. Gavagnie of Security Savings & Loan donated the door prize. A St. Valentine's Program, with games and prizes followed the meeting.

I have been informed, that the Junior past president, Ms. Ruby Life of Waveland has been invited to speak on "Senior Citizens Programs" in Atlanta, Georgia. This is quite an honor for Ruby and for the Club. Congratulations.

ILLNESS

We have surely not been passed over by all the changeable weather. It has caused a lot of sickness here, as well as states all over the country. This week finds many Seniors in Hancock General Hospital; gate. I hollered to attract attention. There was no response. Though about dark, there was no light in the house, which was not unusual as there was no electricity in rural homes back then. Evidently, there was no one there.

I stood there for a minute with a more or less hopeless feeling considering what to do. There was no other place nearby where I could get water. As I glanced around with the dog keeping up his vicious barking, I happened to see a bucket sitting just inside the yard and within easy reach over the rather low fence. I thought I saw a dim reflection of light from the surface of water in the bucket.

A few days later I saw the man who owned the home where I had stopped. I told him of my experience and wondered why he had left the bucket of water there. He told me he had drawn the water from the well just before leaving that night, to fill the radiator on his car sitting out in front of the house.

When he went to fill his radiator, he found it already full, so turned and set the bucket down where I had found it, rather than carrying it back into the house.

I asked him if he had ever put a bucket of water in that location before. The answer was a positive No. Simply stated that was one of those fortunate things not likely to happen again at such a propitious time in a hundred years.

About 1925 or 1926 I drove about 60 miles from home. When I noticed that my gas tank was showing empty I suddenly realized I had left my bill fold at home and did not have one cent of money with me.

I stopped at the first service station I came to and told the operator of my predicament and that I wanted enough gas to get back home. He eyed me suspiciously, then abruptly refused. When I tried to explain, he would not listen.

I drove on down about a half mile to another gas station. I told this man my story, suggesting that he call my bank to see if my check would be good. He agreed to let me have the gas and told his helper to fill my tank.

A big black boy was his helper. He pulled the hose down and lifted the cap from the fuel tank, took a look, then shouted to his boss, "Captain, this tank is full, wouldn't hold another drop." The station owner and myself both ran to see if he was telling the truth. The tank was really full.

I gave the man a check for the phone call and lit out for home, wondering what could have happened. I knew the tank had been empty because I had checked it to see.

As I rode along pondering the solution to this puzzling occurrence, I remembered that at the first station when I drove up, the attendant had pulled the hose down and removed the cap on my tank. Apparently the attendant filled my tank while I was trying to get credit from the owner, then when he saw that his boss was refusing me credit, he did not say anything for fear he might be punished in some way.

Another incident so unusual as to be eerie happened about 50 years ago. J. C. Ford, now deceased, and myself drove up northwest of Poplarville to look at a piece of land that had been offered to us at what we considered a good price.

To get to this land, we turned off the gravel road onto a logging road for about 1 mile to reach one of the corners of this 160 acres. We spent some time going over it.

In the meantime rain clouds had come up and we hurried back to our cars. After the rain stopped, we started back towards the gravel road.

There were no bad places in the old logging road when we drove in but after the rain there were slick places.

When about half way out and about a half mile from the gravel road, our car on a small incline slipped into a rut full of water. Try as we could, we failed to get it out. We were hopelessly mired in the mud.

We were about 2 miles from the nearest house. There were no phones back in those days. Our only hope of getting help was to walk to the gravel road and hope someone would come along who'd be able to help or would carry us to Poplarville where we could get a wrecker.

It was not likely that anyone else would be on this deserted logging road that day or even the next week or maybe the next month.

While we were debating what to do, we heard a motor some distance away. It gradually came closer and to our great relief, we soon saw a logging truck coming toward us on the dim road. The driver stopped, backed up toward our car, hitched a chain to it and pulled it out. We were soon on our way home.

This truck driver told us that no vehicle of any kind now used this old road regularly, that it was not likely anyone else would have come along maybe for a month or even longer that he himself had not been on it for several months before, that we were really lucky that he had gone down in the woods hunting some of his cows he had not recently seen.

Vo-tech objective: lure, hold industry

The six-year-old Hancock County Vocational Technical Center at Stennis Field provides several avenues of technical education in an endeavor to develop a work force which can entice and sustain county industry.

The center's curriculums include five trade courses, two college programs, Start-Up Training and a newly created Two-Plus Two academic program.

The educational facility is funded by 25 percent county, 25 percent federal and 50 percent state monies.

"Twenty percent of approximately 200 center graduates in 1978 have been employed in Hancock County, says Center Director Alvin K. Bourgeois.

"Thirty to 40 percent of these graduates were employed in their field of study, 10 to 15 percent went to college, 10 percent in other fields and 10 percent went in the military," he continued.

Bourgeois emphasizes, "The center also strives to supply a work force which meets community needs." Auto mechanics, building trades, industrial electronics, metal trades and welding are the five trades taught at the vocational center for juniors and seniors from surrounding high schools.

Some 150 high school students from St. Stanislaus, Bay Junior High and Hancock North Central are in the trade education program.

These courses are also offered at night to adults.

A degree may be obtained in the two college programs of nursing and general clerical at the county center.

The LPN nursing program, which presently has 16 students enrolled, spans 12 months. Upon successful completion of the course graduates must take a state board exam for certification.

The general clerical program is a nine month course or two school semesters.

Twelve students are now taking this course.

In the Start Up program, state-supported programs are designed to train potential employees to meet work requirements of new and expanding industry.

The company-oriented training is then administered at a nearby vocational technical center or at the industry's plant site.

Dupont is presently participating in this program.

With the aid of the Start Up Training program, the company is training 35 maintenance technicians at the Hancock Center to work at its titanium dioxide plant under construction at DeLisle.

The Dupont employees receive on-the-job and formal classroom training. Duration of the maintenance technicians training period is 800 hours. Of this, 325 hours have been completed, a spokesman for the company reported last week.

The employees should be ready for work before the opening of the plant in August.

The Vocational Division of the Mississippi Department of Education authorized usage of the Start Up program in conjunction with Dupont.

The Center's academic program is also a new concept offered at the county facility.

The academic program is part of the Two-Plus-Two program whereby, potential students can study the first two years of academic courses at the Hancock Center and then later transfer to the University of Southern Mississippi branch in Long Beach," explains Bourgeois.

"There are 17 courses approved under this program in which college credits obtained at the Hancock Center will be accepted towards 17 areas of study at the USM branch," he continued.

Bourgeois says he wants to strengthen the academic program because, "too many county residents have to go outside of the district for academic training."

Other objectives of the director are to acquire full utilization of the vocational facility, and to establish a relationship with business and industry that causes companies to seek Hancock County Vocational Technical graduates rather than graduates seeking them.

The director says he has acted on community requests to teach nurses aid courses and emergency medical technician courses at the center, and would be glad to provide more if requested.

"The vocational center is necessary because Hancock County is a rural area, to build a vocational technical complex at each school is virtually impossible," states Bourgeois.

Bourgeois considers the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission and National Space Technology Laboratories as the primary industries in the county at present.

The Hancock Center is a branch of the Pearl River Junior College system.

COMMAND PERFORMANCE - Members of the Piccola's School of Dance perform before the assembled court of the St.

By VIRGINIA THOMAS

"Come to The Mardi Gras" was theme of the 1979 St. Ann's Fifth Annual Ball and Masquerade Dance, Saturday, Feb. 18, in the parish hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis Callier reigned as king and queen of the glittering pageant.

The stage, ablaze with lights, was transformed into a gala throne room decorated in the traditional Mardi Gras colors of green, gold and purple.

In the spirit of the carnival season the cares of the world were set aside as the splendor of the ball unfolded and further enhanced the festivities of Mardi Gras madness.

Arrayed in regal splendor her majesty was radiant in a sleeveless sheath gown of white tulle.

The square neckline was embroidered with silver sequins. Her rhinestone and pearl collar topped a black cathedral length train, edged in silver and gold with scrolls of gold sequins.

The central motif of the mantle was the appliqued letters "S A" brilliantly outlined with gold sequins.

To complete her regal attire, the queen wore a silver jeweled tiara, long white gloves and crystal evening slippers.

The king reigned in black tie and tails, with mantle and sceptre matching his queen's. His crown was gold and red velvet encrusted with rhinestones.

The Bal Masque began with the introduction of the returning 1978 king and queen, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Mauffray, monarchs of St. Ann's fourth ball. Mrs. Mauffray chose a fitted gown of white slipper satin accented with a wide sequined waistband.

Mrs. Gloria Moran made her entrance as the sparkle and glitter of Mardi Gras.

Maid to her majesty, garbed in individually styled gowns in a colorful mixture of finery, were Mrs. Mark Blackledge, Mrs. John Miller, Mrs. Louis Foret, Mrs. H.W. Duke and Mrs. Charles Ladner.

Dukes to the king were Mr. Mark Blackledge, Mr. John Miller, Mr. Louis Foret, Mr. Maurice Shae, and Mr. Charles Ladner.

Pages to her majesty, wearing short white dresses, white stockings and slippers, were Sheila and Sherry Smith.

Climax of the gala event was the presentation of the 1979 king and queen, escorted by the grand marshal, Mr. Gerard Boos, amid fanfare and applause as the royal couple promenaded to the throne.

The ballroom was decorated with masks and balloons hanging over the dance floor.

adding to the decor commemorating the Mardi Gras.

Following the royal entertainment which included several dance routines by students of Piccola's School of Dancing. Krewe members, carrying beads and trinkets danced into the room scattering carnival favors to the delight of the loyal subjects.

At the conclusion of the tableau, their royal highnesses led the court in a grand march.

As the oldest subjects in attendance, Mrs. Honorine

Hughes and Mr. W.J. Howard, were recognized and presented with gifts by the royal rulers.

Prizes for the best costumes were awarded to Mrs. L. Rupp, Mrs. L. Hote, Mrs. M. James and Mrs. A.M. Thomas.

Chairpersons included Mrs. A.M. Thomas, president; Mrs. M. James, vice president; Mrs. A. Ladner, treasurer; Mrs. L. Hote and Mrs. M. Brown, membership; Mrs. L. Rupp and Mr. J. Davis, refreshments.

Music for dancing was provided by Bo and Dee.

SCHOOL BOARD TRUSTEE

My interest in running for Trustee of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District stems from long affiliations with several schools and thousands of children and young adults. Now as a Mother with a son, Donald Collins Diboll, who attends Bay Junior High School and is a member of the Junior High Basketball team, the importance of good, sound education has been brought closer to me than ever before.
